

Bhog Message via Sr Shashi, Madhuban, 5 March 2026

Om Shanti. Today, on the day of Satguruwar, with everyone's loving remembrance, it was as if I reached the subtle home. In front of Baba, I saw two transparent rooms. Baba was looking at those transparent rooms for a long time. In one room, what did I see? Rays of light were crossing and cutting across one another. In the same room, on another side, the rays of light were moving up and down like a great storm. In another area of that same room, I saw those rays of light spinning round and round. And in the fourth area, the rays of light were sometimes shining and sometimes going dim. Then I looked toward the second transparent room. There were some rays of light that were very gentle and slow. Some lights were a little stronger, and some were of different kinds and intensities. Baba kept observing both of those rooms for quite some time. When Baba looked toward me, Baba did not speak for some time. Baba remained completely in silence. After a little while, Baba said, "Child, what is Baba seeing today?" Baba said that the condition of the world is such that the mental state of people is moving more and more toward confusion day by day. Physical illnesses are making human beings experience many kinds of sorrow and pain. Nature is showing its play in a fierce form, and powerful nations of the world are frightening one another intensely. Then Baba said that Baba also looks at the children. Today Baba was especially observing the inner stage of the children. Baba said that the inner stage of the children is sometimes light, sometimes strong, sometimes a little elevated, and sometimes going downward. Then Baba became silent again. Baba said that Baba has already told the children that in such circumstances the support of the Father is always with them, but the children have to make their own stage powerful. Baba said that many children still entangle themselves in the confusion of their thoughts. Baba had already told the children that the Father's companionship and cooperation will remain with the children until the end, but the children sometimes forget this. Because of that, they step down from the seat of their true stage and are not able to experience it. Baba said that just as Baba was observing the form of the children today, in the same way the children must also pay attention to themselves, make themselves light, and by checking themselves they must make effort to fill themselves with fullness. Then what did Baba do? It was as if all the children were present in front of Baba. Today Baba's form appeared a little official. Baba said that from time to time Baba gives subtle signals to the children and also gives them many types of experiences and help so they can move forward. But even now, sometimes the children catch those signals and sometimes they do not. Baba was giving a lot of power to all the children through His vision. Baba said that now the children need power. Along with power, Baba placed four flowers in front of the children. One flower was above and three flowers were below. Baba said, "Look carefully at these flowers." On the first flower it was written: Become one with a cooling, soothing form. On the flower in the middle it was written: The power of silence. On the third flower it was written: The stage of a fiery form. And on the top flower it was written: Become an embodiment of accomplishment and be victorious. Baba said that according to the present time, first of all the children need to experience and use the power of silence as much as possible. In front of the world the children should become a cooling, soothing form, and toward the self the children should become a fiery form. Then the children will experience that every task becomes easy and successful. Baba has already given the blessing to the children: "Be victorious," but the children forget that blessing. Now is the time to practice these forms and become an embodiment of accomplishment and victory. Only then will the task of world transformation become easy. Only then will the slogan of revelation resound powerfully. Baba was giving so much love to everyone. Along with that love, Baba gave those four kinds of flowers to all the children. In each flower there was a light, and on that light these words were written: The power of silence, the cooling form, the fiery form, and on the top flower: Become an embodiment of accomplishment and be victorious. Then Baba was offered bhog. Baba accepted the bhog and gave it to everyone. After the bhog, I told Baba that everyone had sent their messages for the offering. Baba brought everyone in front of Him and said that the children are still playing childish games. For small matters they say, "Ask Baba this, ask Baba that." Baba said that now instead of sending messages, the children should sit in front of Baba and place whatever thoughts they have before Him, and Baba will give the return through experience. Therefore the children should no longer behave like small children with their thoughts. The Father's companionship is always there, and with the experience of the Father's support they will continue to receive every kind of help. Then Baba gave remembrance to everyone. Om Shanti.
